Bibliographie Platonicienne 2013-2014

par

Luc Brisson, CNRS Paris

Cette bibliographie, réalisée sur le modèle de celles de Lustrum, se réduit à deux listes: une liste des éditions et traductions des œuvres de Platon, et une liste de titres de travaux sur Platon et sur ses œuvres, classées par ordre alphabétique des noms d'auteur. Ces listes sont précédées d'un inventaire complet des sources: périodiques, actes de congrès, mélanges, recueils, inventaire auquel on se reportera pour localiser avec précision tous les articles énumérés. Cette bibliographie ne comprend cependant ni commentaire ni inventaire de comptes rendus ni index analytique. Mon but a été de dresser la liste la plus complète et la plus précise possible des travaux sur Platon et sur ses œuvres publiés en 2013 et en 2014. Il a cependant été tenu compte de tous les travaux antérieurs non mentionnés dans les précédentes bibliographies. Je tiens à exprimer ma gratitude envers Eric Rebillard, Directeur des services et publications numériques de l'Année Philologique pour sa disponibilité. Je remercie aussi Noboru Notomi et Filip Karfik qui m'ont fourni une bibliographie des travaux sur Platon publiés au Japon et en Tchéquie en 2013. Je veux enfin remercier Michel Christiansen et Matthieu Guyot qui ont vérifié l'exactitude des références. Les erreurs qui subsistent relèvent de ma responsabilité. J'aimerais que les lecteurs me signalent ces erreurs et me fassent des remarques critiques en vue d'améliorer ce travail : lbrisson@agalma.net.

N.B. Pour le Grec ancien, nous avons utilisé le système de translittération suivant: êta = e; oméga = o; dzèta = z; thèta = th; xi = x; phi = ph; khi = kh; psi = ps. L'iota souscrit est adscrit (par exemple ei); et lorsqu'il s'agit d'un alpha, cet alpha est long = ai). L'esprit rude est noté h, et l'esprit doux n'est pas noté. Tous les accents sont notés.

This bibliography, based on a Lustrum-type model, consists of two lists: a list of the editions and translations of Plato's works, and a list of titles of studies on Plato and his works, arranged according to the alphabetical order of their author's name. These lists are preceded by a complete directory of sources – periodicals, proceedings, studies in honor of and collections – enabling the reader to precisely locate all listed articles. This bibliography does not, however, include commentaries, a directory of critical reviews nor an analytical index. Nonetheless, I trust that in its present state this work will prove useful to the members of the International Plato Society. My goal was twofold: to establish the most complete and accurate list of works, published in 2013 and 2014 on Plato and his works; and to take into account all those earlier studies not mentioned in the International Plato Society's previous bibliographies. I hope these directions in English will simplify the use of this bibliography produced in French. I would like to express my gratitude to Eric Rebillard, director of the electronic publication of the Année Philologique for his receptiveness, and to Noboru Notomi and Filip Karfip Karfik who provided me with a bibliography of works on Plato published in Japan and in the Czech Republic in 2013. I would also like to thank Michael Chase and Michel Christiansen for checking the accuracy of the references. Any mistakes published, however, remain my responsibility. I gratefully receive any comments or corrections my readers might suggest. I trust as well that the next edition of that bibliography will follow as scheduled : lbrisson@agalma.net.

N.B. For ancient Greek, we have used the following system of transliteration. Greek letters are written in Roman letters according to this system: eta = ē; omega = ō; zeta = z; theta = th; xi = x; phi = ph; khi = kh; psi = ps. Iota subscript is written after the letter (for example ēi, and ai if it is an alpha, because in this case a is a long vowel) ; rough breathings are written as h, and smooth breathings are not noted. All accents are noted.
